Hello,

We received a counter notification under the Digital Millennium Copyright Act ("DMCA"), in response to a copyright takedown notice you submitted for the following content:

https://www.reddit.com/r/h3snark/comments/1f3hlsl/megathread_the_h3_show_aug_28_2024/https://www.reddit.com/r/h3snark/comments/1fiiy9j/ethan_and_dan_confirm_that_posting_to_snark_will/

Details of the counter notification and original DMCA notice are copied below, for your review.

We're providing you with the counter notification and await information (in not more than 10 US business days) that you've filed an action seeking a court order to enjoin the counter notifier's use of that content on Reddit. Such information should be submitted to us by replying directly to this email. If we don't receive this information from you, we may reinstate the content to Reddit.

Counter Notification - counter explanation Instance 1: This post contained a clip from a publicly available YouTube stream. The clip's duration was approximately 1-3 minutes, which falls well within the parameters of Fair Use. As such, we contend that this post should not have been removed for copyright infringement.
Instance 2: This post consisted solely of a direct link to H3's official YouTube channel, not to any specific video. Providing a link to an official channel or video to direct users to content through authorized means does not constitute copyright infringement. This removal is equivalent to a television network suing a newspaper for publishing their official programming schedule or announcing an upcoming premiere. Such actions are not only standard practice in media but are typically welcomed as free publicity. Just as a TV listing directs viewers to official content without reproducing it, our link simply guided users to H3's authorized YouTube channel. Removing this link is as nonsensical as penalizing a publication for informing its readers about where and when they can legally access content.
We believe both posts were removed erroneously and should be reinstated. We kindly request your review of this matter and look forward to your response.

Hello Reddit Admins,
We are writing to contest the removal of two posts from our subreddit under alleged copyright claims. We respectfully request that you review these posts, reinstate them, and provide information about the party filing these removal requests. We believe these reports may have been filed by fans rather than the legitimate copyright holder.
